

State school districts may face shortfall

BY TRACI BONNEY
The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District may face a dent in its funds — a $170,000 dent. Superintendent Robert Magee said if an anticipated five percent reduction in minimum program funds occurs at the state level, it could reduce funds coming to the district by $170,000. Hardest hit will be the vocational education program, which is taking a cut of $2,383,213 on the state level, and the textbook allotment, which is being reduced by $338,549 in Jackson.

Magee said he did not have a figure for the local reduction in the vocational education program, but in the textbook allotment the reduction is $1,451.25 for the district.

The Education Reform Act program reduction for the district is $154.29, and the reduction in the Educable Child program is $9 per student in the district's special education curriculum.

Magee did not have district reduction figures for the Transportation, Industrial Training and School Lunch programs.

"Right now we have to wait and see what will happen," Magee said. "We have tried to start looking at ways to economize and cut back as the need arises."

Magee added that the district's transportation program will not be greatly affected, since the district set aside money for transportation while formulating the 1990-1991 budget.

This was done, he explained, in case Gov. Ray Mabus' BEST proposal failed. Magee said BEST eliminated some state funding of transportation, but promised to reimburse the districts in other areas. When BEST was passed but did not receive funding, the transportation money was lost.

New pier

Hancock County supervisors recently approved reconstruction work on the Washington Ave. (American Legion) pier. The rebuilt pier features fishing pole holders (shown at left) of PVC pipe set into the rails. According to Bureau of Marine Resources spokesman Jeff Taylor, the last step in the three-phase improvement project is to provide lighting for the pier. The first step was to pave the road to the pier. (Echo staff photos by Traci Bonney)

From bars to blackboards

'Sentenced to Read' headquarters dedicated

BY TRACI BONNEY
Young law offenders now have a place to go instead of jail: the old jail. The former Hancock County jail facility is now the site of the

"Sentenced to Read" program, thanks to the Hancock County Youth Court, MINACT Inc., Gulf Coast Business Services and GE Plastics. The program's newly refurbished headquarters were unveiled Friday at a dedication ceremony attended by city and county officials, along with many other people.

After thanking all those involved for their time and work, Youth Court Judge Michael D. Haas introduced Booker T. Jones, president and CEO of MINACT Inc. Jones commended the Youth Court staff for their concern for giving those offenders in the 14-21 age group a chance to avoid becoming habitual lawbreakers by teaching them basic learning and job skills.

After a presentation of plaques and the unveiling of the sign above the facility door, Haas invited those attending the ceremony to tour the building and enjoy the refreshments that were served.

Inside on a bulletin board were "before" and "after" pictures of the jail facility. Peeling walls and dilapidated furnishings have been replaced with fresh coats of paint, cheery stencilling and art prints, tables, chairs and reading materials. Walls that were once covered with obscenities are now decorated with posters encouraging "Sentenced to Read" participants to reach for their goals.

Small remnants of the building's former structure remain, perhaps as reminders. Window bars have not been removed, but merely painted over; in one room, a blackboard is mounted on top of the bars.

Several people touring the building commented about the blackboard's position. One man remarked, "That says it all, doesn't it?"

Waveland approves Idlewood beautification

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The property owners of Idlewood subdivision are anything but idle.

Representatives of the Idlewood Homeowners Association sought and received approval at the November 21 meeting of the Waveland Board of Aldermen to erect brick planters at three subdivision dead end streets.

The streets affected will be Campion and Idlewood drives, and Yarborough Place.

The planters will be built at the expense of the association, which received praise from the board for its efforts to continue and maintain improvements to the subdivision.

Bernard Tusa, custodian for Elwood Bourgeois Park, appeared before the board to ask that the tennis courts be closed earlier than 11 p.m.

The board decided to continue with the 11 p.m. closing time, but to instruct a patrolman to check the courts at 10 p.m. If they are not in use, the patrolman will close them at that time.

If the courts are in use, the officer on patrol at 11 will check and close the courts, thereby freeing Tusa from the responsibility.

The board also approved a motion to have an electrician look into the expense of installing a timer system at the courts.

In addition, the board accepted the 1990 county property tax assessment rolls of $17,783,130.

The board also opened and took under advisement bids for utility department water pipes and materials.

The board adjourned until December 4 at 6 p.m., when present board members will be dismissed. After the general election, the new board members will be sworn into office.

Vandalism does not halt work on Bay Side church

BY TRACI BONNEY

Building work continues on the new Bay Side Park Baptist Church facility despite an episode of vandalism November 15.

David Ratcliff, a member of First Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis who has been "temporarily transferred" to the Bay Side church to help with the construction, said the church's electrical wiring was nearly complete before the vandals "took what wire they could pull out, and cut what they couldn't take."

The incident with the wiring is not the first attack sustained by the church. Ratcliff said a trailer which housed classrooms was burned not long ago.

There are no suspects in the wiring incident yet, he added.

Ratcliff said the vandalism of the wiring set the church back about $1,300 in wiring costs, and would have cost another $1,400 in labor fees had a paid professional been hired. As the situation stands, many hours' worth of volunteer labor were destroyed.

Wire repair

Paul Layton of Gulf Coast Baptist Builders works to rewire a room of the new Bay Side Park Baptist Church. (Echo staff photos by Traci Bonney)

"It's disheartening," he commented, "but it isn't going to stop us."

The church expected to be finished building its new facility in mid-December. "We'll be doing well if we're in by the first of the year," Ratcliff said.

Meanwhile, members of the Gulf Coast Baptist Builders continue to undo the damage and resume progress on the church.

Williams honored on retirement

Dispatch new services supervisor Cecil Williams retired from Coast Electric Power Association on Nov. 13. Williams began his career with the electric cooperative in 1957 and has held the positions of posting/billing clerk, dispatcher and dispatch supervisor.

Williams will long be remembered as the "voice" of Coast Electric. He earned this recognition for having manned the association's two-way communications radio for some 25 years.

He fondly recalls his radio training sessions with the late Mrs. Edris Stechmann.

"Edris taught me the details of radio procedure. Her guidance and the splendid cooperation from each and every employee made my job most rewarding," he said.

During his 33 years with Coast Electric, Williams has seen the association grow and progress. He said, "When I started Coast Electric had about 7,500 members, and radio dispatching was a one-man operation," he recalls.

"Today, the association provides service to more than 42,000 members, and the dispatch department operates 24 hours with employees working around-the-clock shifts," he said.

General manager Robert Occhi commended Williams for his dedication and commitment to others. "Your wit, humor and positive approach has made you an inspiration to all the employees of this organization," Occhi commented.

In response, Williams said, "I am proud to have worked for an industry that strengthened and continues to strengthen America. The rural electrification program is a remarkable success story, one that I've lived through."

Williams, a native of Hancock County, is married to the former Beatrice Ruspoli. Together they plan to enjoy the retirement years by frequently traveling to Texas for visits with their son, Albert, daughter-in-law, Pat, and grandson, Patrick.

Also, they will continue to operate their stationery and gift shop in Bay St. Louis. Williams added he expects his wife, "Miss Bea," will keep him busy most all the time.

Tigers defeat Admirals 3-2

Special to the Echo
Sudden death led to victory for the Bay High Tiger soccer team Tuesday in its season opener against the Admirals of Gulfport.

The Tigers were well-supported by their fans in the away game, and those who traveled to Gulfport to watch the match weren't disappointed, as the Tigers capped off a double sudden death shootout with a 3-2 win.

Gulfport led 2-0 at the end of the first half, but the Tigers stormed back in the second half with goals from Shawn Keener and Koe Dobson to tie the score at the end of regulation play. Outstanding defensive play from Brennan Compretta, Richard Watson, Gerrit Carver and goalie Lee Murphree enabled the Tigers to hold the Admirals scoreless in the second half.

Neither team scored during the overtime period which set up the sudden death shootout, and the score remained knotted at 2-2 each.

In the second shootout, Murphree successfully blocked the first Admiral shot. Then, the Tigers' first shooter, Jason Loiacano, scored the winning goal.

Tiger varsity team captains were Richard Watson and Danny Harvill.

The junior varsity game ended in a scoreless tie. Outstanding defensive players for the junior Tigers were goalie Jeremy Clark and sweeper Chad Patton. Captains for the game were Christopher Boston and Michael Perniciaro.

Biloxi, Pass sites of 'Race of the White Wings'

For a time, the Biloxi schooner seemed extinct, but two vessels of this type have been built recently. One is schooner rigged and one sloop rigged, and the race between the new "White Wings" will take place Nov. 24-25.

The Biloxi Seafood Industry Museum's schooner, the 'Glenn L. Swetman' has challenged the 'Corsair', owned by Michael Broussard, a local fisherman of Pass Christian, to a race.

The first race will start from the Biloxi Yacht Club Saturday, Nov. 24.

The City of Pass Christian and the Pass Christian Yacht Club will host the second race Sunday, Nov. 25.

Opening festivities will start at 10 a.m. both days, with the races beginning at 11.

Spectator boats will be available for people to board and watch the race. A press boat will also be available. Both racing boats will be open for public viewing the two days.

Organizers hope the "Race of the White Wings" will become an annual event, with more schooners becoming involved.

The 'Swetman' will be sailed by world-class yachtsman Gene Walet, who has been very active in helping to raise interest in and funding for the Biloxi Schooner Project.

The 'Corsair' will be sailed by its owner, Michael Broussard. Each captain will select his own crew for the race.

The 'Swetman' was built by Bill Holland and the 'Corsair' was built by Broussard. Nick Misko of Biloxi was instrumental in the design of both vessels.

Robin Krohn, manager of the Seafood Industry Museum, said, "The last big full-sailed schooner race was held in 1932.

The 'Mary Margaret' sailed against the 'Julia Delacruz' and two other non-Biloxi schooners, the 'J. Peterson' and the 'F. L. Colle'.

The 'Mary Margaret' bowed out as the schooner champion of Biloxi. Two races sailed in 1938 by Biloxi schooners made a valiant try to revive schooner racing, but they had already lost their topmasts and were down to the three basic sails and no longer looked the part of the 'White Winged Queens.' The old sailing schooners of Biloxi were gone.

Donations will be accepted, and donors should designate the boat of their choice.

Any donations for the 'Swetman' will go toward the Biloxi Schooner Project in helping complete the second schooner presently under construction.

Any donations for the 'Corsair' will go to the Pass Christian Harbor for improvement of the present facilities.

Donations may be mailed to the Seafood Industry Museum, P.O. Box 1907, Biloxi, MS 39533, or the City of Pass Christian, Attn: Barbara, P. O.

We, Jean, the family and I, feel that we have been blessed to have so many dear friends.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

It is always good to write about individuals and groups who take time to think about others who are less fortunate, especially around the holidays.

The Thanksgiving dinners, clothing, and baskets of foods are just a few examples of the kindnesses shown throughout our county.

I would like to express my appreciation to everyone who helps others in need, whether it be at Thanksgiving, or any other time of the year.

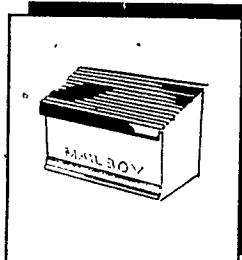

A Women's Charity Tennis Invitational Tournament is scheduled for December 3-5 to benefit the United Way of Hancock County.

The event is to be sponsored by the Diamondhead Country Club, with Magnus Eklund, Diamondhead's tennis pro, organizer of the tournament.

As most of you know, the United Way of Hancock County's campaign goal this year is $110,000 and Tim Ryan is the campaign chairman.

As of Friday, Nov. 23, some $52,084, or 47.4% of the goal has been raised, so the campaign still has a long way to go.

If you have not been contacted for a contribution to the United Way and would like to send one, mail it to: United Way, P.O. Box 142, Bay St. Louis, MS. 39520. You can also receive further information by calling 467-9501.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Hancock residents commended for support of Guard members

To the Editor:

On behalf of Detachment 1, 1355th Supply and Service Company, I salute the citizens of Hancock County for the unprecedented help and assistance during our alert and subsequent mobilization call.

The additional help during our alert phase Nov. 12 through 16 made it possible for our personnel on alert to spend at least some time with their families before deployment. In addition, this also made it possible for us to meet our alert time table for loading equipment.

A special thanks to Sam Cuevas and the Cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland for the Friday night dinner at the American Legion Hall. Also thanks to Sheriff Ronnie Peterson for allowing jail trustees to work with us. Their presence nearly doubled our "authorized" manpower and proved instrumental in getting our deployment tasks accomplished.

Each of us is very proud to be a member of the Army National Guard at Bay St. Louis. We are also proud to represent the fine communities of this area. Keep us in your hearts and prayers. Thank you all.

Dockside gambling traffic would disturb quiet street

Dear Editor:

In reference to the Letter to the Editor from the Gambinos Thursday, Nov. 22:

First of all, the only two ways in or out of Bay Cove Marina are through school zones five days a week.

Many of the people seeking to gamble are going to be unfamiliar with our small roads that access Bay Cove. Will they observe speed limits, school zones and the quiet neighborhoods, especially after consuming alcohol and losing considerably? (The odds are always against winning.)

In closing, I am for a statewide lottery, but I will, and I hope others will vote no to dockside gambling in Hancock County.

Helen LeBlanc will be missed by many

Dear Editor:

On November 7, 1990, Bay St. Louis and all of Hancock County lost a wonderful person. Mrs. Helen Key LeBlanc left our world to join her heavenly Father.

This beautiful lady gave so much of herself to everyone and especially to the children in her swimming school. She, along with her husband, Clyde, taught hundreds of children from age three to 70 to swim.

Mrs. Helen, as most of her classes called her, not only gave the children confidence in themselves but she gave each and everyone her love.

We will all miss this kind and gentle, loving woman.

Sincerely,
The Pope Family

Gambling is against doctrine of church

To the Editor,

Because so many of us agree that the deadly virus of materialism, i.e., the passion to get much for nothing, is epidemic over our beloved land, and

Because so many states are enamored with the idea of legalizing gambling and lotteries as an easy cure for our tax needs; when the real cause of our deficiency in governmental revenue is our consuming desire to get as much as we can while giving as little as we can to our government, and

Because, some 100 years ago, in New Orleans, Dr. Benjamin Palmer Morgan, a Presbyterian minister who was a giant intellectually, morally, and spiritually, used his influence, in a largely Roman Catholic state, to defeat the legalization of lotteries and gambling, and these evils have been outlawed in Louisiana until now, and

Because, according to the Presbyterian Confession of Faith, these evils violate the Decalogue No. 10, "Thou shalt not covet anything that is thy neighbor's," and No. 8, "Thou shalt not steal," and, "Sins for-bidding in the 8th Commandment are: theft, robbery—false weights and measures—usury—bribery—wasteful gaming." No easy solution to budget crisis

Lately, you've probably read or heard about Mississippi's budget shortfall.

The projected shortfall could go as high as $105 million for the current year. Some are saying that we need to cut the full amount right now.

But if we did, the suffering would run deep. Let's take a look at what would happen if we have to cut $105 million from the state's budget.

First, school kids would suffer. Elementary and Secondary Education would see a loss of nearly $42 million. That's money that goes directly into the classroom. Such a cut would directly affect students from kindergarten through 12th grade. And it would not only hit schools from the loss of funds on the statewide level. The impact would be felt locally.

If we cut $105 million, around $10 million would come from our state university system. That means we would not only hurt our students who haven't graduated from high school, we'd hurt those who are on the brink of entering the workforce.

If we cut $105 million, about $4 million would be taken from the state's community colleges at a time when we are trying to reach more students, not fewer.

If we cut $105 million, $7 million would be taken from our Medicaid funds at a time when we need to reach out to those in need, like the elderly in nursing homes, not pull back.

The Department of Finance and Administration thus far has taken a responsible approach to the shortfall, cutting $28 million dollars from our multi-billion dollar budget. When you add the $70 million shortfall that we are facing, the budget axe will cut deep.

Every governor in the 1980's has been faced with paring back the size of state government.

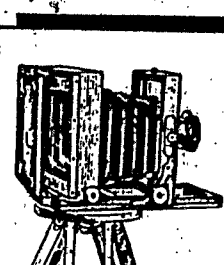

In 1982, 1983, 1984, 1985 and 1986, we were forced to trim millions of dollars from the budget because of overspending or a lack of revenues.

And in 1990...here we go again.

I have met frequently with legislators, attempting to hammer out a solution to our budget crisis. By keeping the lines of communication open, and working together, we might be able to find an answer.

If we don't, the financial ghost that has haunted us throughout the 1980's will continue to darken our doorway into the 90's, and that's something that none of us can afford.

Stay tuned. In the weeks to come, I'll explain how we might be able to get a handle on the budget process in this column.

Appointment of Joseph H. Benvenuti as Bay St. Louis City judge was announced by Mayor John A. Scafile. His compensation will be $150 per month. Scafile, who has been acting in this capacity, stated Commission Council agreed that the creation of the office had become a necessity due to the rapid growth of the city and increasing number of case loads.

The 10-ton load limit was extended to all county roads by the Board of Supervisors Monday following observations that a number of trucks are trying to avoid the U.S. 90 Highway Scales and are tearing up locally-maintained arteries. Truckers' efforts to beat the rule have resulted in especially heavy traffic on the Texas Flat Road, so it has to be graded three times a week.

The 16th Annual Flea Fly contest will take place in Stanislaus Stadium on Sunday, December 1st. This game always has been of great interest to the smaller students of the college as it offers those athletically inclined to play under big game conditions. The crowds, the band, a chance to star—these are the chances the tilt offers for the upcoming Rock-A-Chaws. It is noteworthy that many of the famous men who starred on the Stanislaus Varsity and later to college were once Fleas and Flies. Well known to this locality are "Coach" Harry "Wop" Glover, of St. Aloysius, "Coach" Marchie Schwartz, of Rose Bowl Bound Stanford and "Coach" Johnny "Baby Grand" Scafile of Polaville College.

There being vague rumors that non-residents were camping on the banks of the Jordan River, and hunting in that vicinity without first having procured the required $20 non-resident license, he took a trip up the river during the early part of the week with Constable Albert Jones and Wilber Driver, on the latter's boat, and found nothing to substantiate the report after a thorough investigation. Speaking of the report, Mr. Mitchell says it was like the story of the empty box—nothing in it.

A Washington dispatch to the New York World says that the next presidential campaign will be the most expensive the country ever saw, and that "no man cannot command personally or through his backers at least $2,000,000 needed to consider himself in the race." We doubt whether this is at all overdrawn. The amount of money in our presidential elections is a national disgrace. It has come to pass that direct and positive corruption is the great power in politics and all other influences are of secondary and trifling importance. To raise money, parties or candidates are laid under obligations to those who can raise money. No doubt whether there is a country in the world where party managers earn so much on corruption and so much on appeals to intelligence. — Moblie News.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi Economic Council

The need for understanding free enterprise

Mississippi's education leaders are involved in an important process—the evaluation of the secondary school curriculum and appropriate revisions based on that evaluation.

There seems widespread agreement that there is a need for strengthening of the curriculum, and the Mississippi Economic Council applauds those leaders who have taken on this responsibility.

There must be continuing examination of the state's education system to assure the most complete and most beneficial training we can provide for our children.

There is something missing in the curriculum and now is the time to make the correction.

Missing from the curriculum is an emphasis on the American economic system—the free enterprise system.

We must not interfere with the teaching of the recognized fundamentals—reading, writing, and arithmetic.

But we should include in our system of education instruction the economic system which makes education possible, and which makes education accessible to all Mississippians and all Americans.

That system is free enterprise.

Let's be sure, as we adjust the system, that free enterprise education is included for all Mississippi's students.

Minor is featured speaker at annual Chamber banquet

The Hancock Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual banquet on Friday, Dec. 7 at 7 p.m. at Diamondhead Country Club.

Guest speaker for the annual event is Bill Minor, a syndicated columnist who has been covering Mississippi as a journalist for 43 years. He is regarded as the "dean" of the state's political writers.

For 29 years, Minor was the Mississippi correspondent for the New Orleans Times-Picayune, based in Jackson. When the Picayune closed its Jackson office in 1976, Minor chose to remain in Mississippi rather than take another assignment with the T-P outside the state. He became editor and owner of the Capital Reporter, a weekly investigative/political watchdog newspaper in Jackson which won national recognition.

In 1978, Minor was presented the Elijah Lovejoy Award by Southern Illinois University as the best weekly editor in the country.

After the Capital Reporter ceased publication in late 1981, Minor devoted his full attention to syndicating his twice-weekly political column, which now appears in more than 40 Mississippi newspapers.

Minor has covered some 50 sessions of the Mississippi Legislature, as well as 10 gubernatorial campaigns and every other major political story in the state over the last four decades.

Additionally, he has covered seven national Democratic conventions and three Republican national conventions. In 1966, he was presented the Louis Lyons Award of the Nieman Foundation at Harvard University for "conscience and integrity in journalism."

Minor does a weekly television commentary for station WLBT in Jackson and has frequently appeared on Mississippi Educational Television.

A native of Hammond, La., he is a graduate of Bogalusa, La. High School, and received his BA degree in journalism from Tulane University. He is a World War II Naval combat veteran.

He is married to the former Gloria Marks of New Orleans. The Minors have three sons, all of whom are engaged in professional careers in Mississippi.

Deadline for reservations is Nov. 30. For additional information contact the Chamber office at 467-9048.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

Scarcely have we cleared away the Thanksgiving holiday table remains that we are bombarded from all sides with reminders that we'd best get busy with Christmas in the offing; in fact, we are already being reminded that there are only so many shopping days before Christmas, and Christmas trees are stacked up at our area supermarkets!

Please, please, can't we finish off the Thanksgiving leftovers first! But, it truly is time to get busy cooking up or otherwise planning or preparing getting ready those special Yuletide delicacies for family or for food gifts at Christmas.

The supermarkets are well prepared to start you on your way with special sales on flour, sugar, cake mixes and such, as well as all the "fixings" for fruit cake-making or other treats. And, everyone knows that you must make your fruitcakes and give them time to ripen or mellow long before Christmas comes!

With the provision of fresh fruits and vegetables offered at our markets, there's ample time to make jellies and jams and preserves, as well as pickles and other condiments. And, a gift from the kitchen is always welcome!

Why not wander a bit from the beaten path in your choice of food gifts? Pick up some of the zucchini offered at good prices just now, and make up some jars of:

DU BOSE JELLY
(This is Gerry Du Bose's specialty, and I can assure you that it's delicious; I tasted it at Carol Surgi's home before I attempted quickly a batch on my own!)
6 cups peeled and grated zucchini squash
6 cups sugar
2 cans crushed pineapple (20 oz. each)

2 apricot flavored jello packs (3 oz. each)
Combine zucchini, sugar and pineapple, and cook for 20 minutes at moderate heat. Remove from fire, add the jello. Place in jars and seal. That's all there is to this delicious treat!
Gerry advises that you may use peach jello instead of the apricot; I think that I'll try that next!

Most of us are still using up the Thanksgiving Day Feast leftovers, or at last some of them. But, somehow, you still have to make a return trip to the store, no matter how much you cooked up over the holiday. Hams are a good buy at the markets this week, as are pork chops and roasts, and the ever-popular fryer leg quarters are offered at good savings. Ground beef and ground turkey are also bargains, so why not cook a tasty meat loaf or big pot of meat sauce for spaghetti as a change from the more elaborate holiday feasting?

With Russet and other potatoes a special bargain at our area supermarkets, I think that I'll bake a few potatoes, then stuff them, adding bacon bits and topping with good sharp cheddar cheese, and share with friends, as we often do.

Or, perhaps I'll turn to that good old-time comfort food, mashed potatoes, and give them a zingy "lift" with fresh lemon peel shreds, as in this simple recipe from a cookbook I've just received, "Good Food, Good Friends," (Taylor Publishing Co., Dallas, Texas.)

Designs by two students will be marketed internationally

BY JANET MCQUEEN
Two young Hancock County artists have captured the attention of Very Special Arts officials on the state and national levels.

Mikel Watkins, 12, who has cerebral palsy, and David Curtindale, 11, who has Tourette's Syndrome, designed vivid, free-form artworks which will be screenprinted on T-shirts and marketed internationally.

Very Special Arts Mississippi is a statewide non-profit organization designed to demonstrate how the arts—music, dance, drama, literature and visual arts, can be used as an educational tool for learners with special needs.

The program is an educational affiliate of the John F. Kennedy Center for Performing Arts in Washington, D. C.

VSA-MS executive director Jorja Turnipseed of Jackson presented the two boys with T-shirts featuring their original designs in Friday ceremonies at Bay Middle School and Hancock High School.

Watkins, who is a seventh grader Hancock High School student, is the son of Mikel and Helen Watkins of Bay St. Louis. Curtindale is a sixth grader at Bay Middle School and is the son of Mary Curtindale and Rocky Curtindale, both of Waveland.

Both were students of special education teacher Joan Tomlinson in the Bay-Waveland School System at the time of the art competition.

Tomlinson, who has had no formal art training, encourages her students to paint to stimulate creative and mental growth. Painting and drawing are part of her language lessons, as the children learn the concepts of "up and down and around and around" by the movements of their paintbrushes.

"The students choose their own subjects. I just offered suggestions," she said. Bright vivid colors depict many shapes and sizes of fish in Curtindale's creation, while a bright abstract was designed by Watkins.

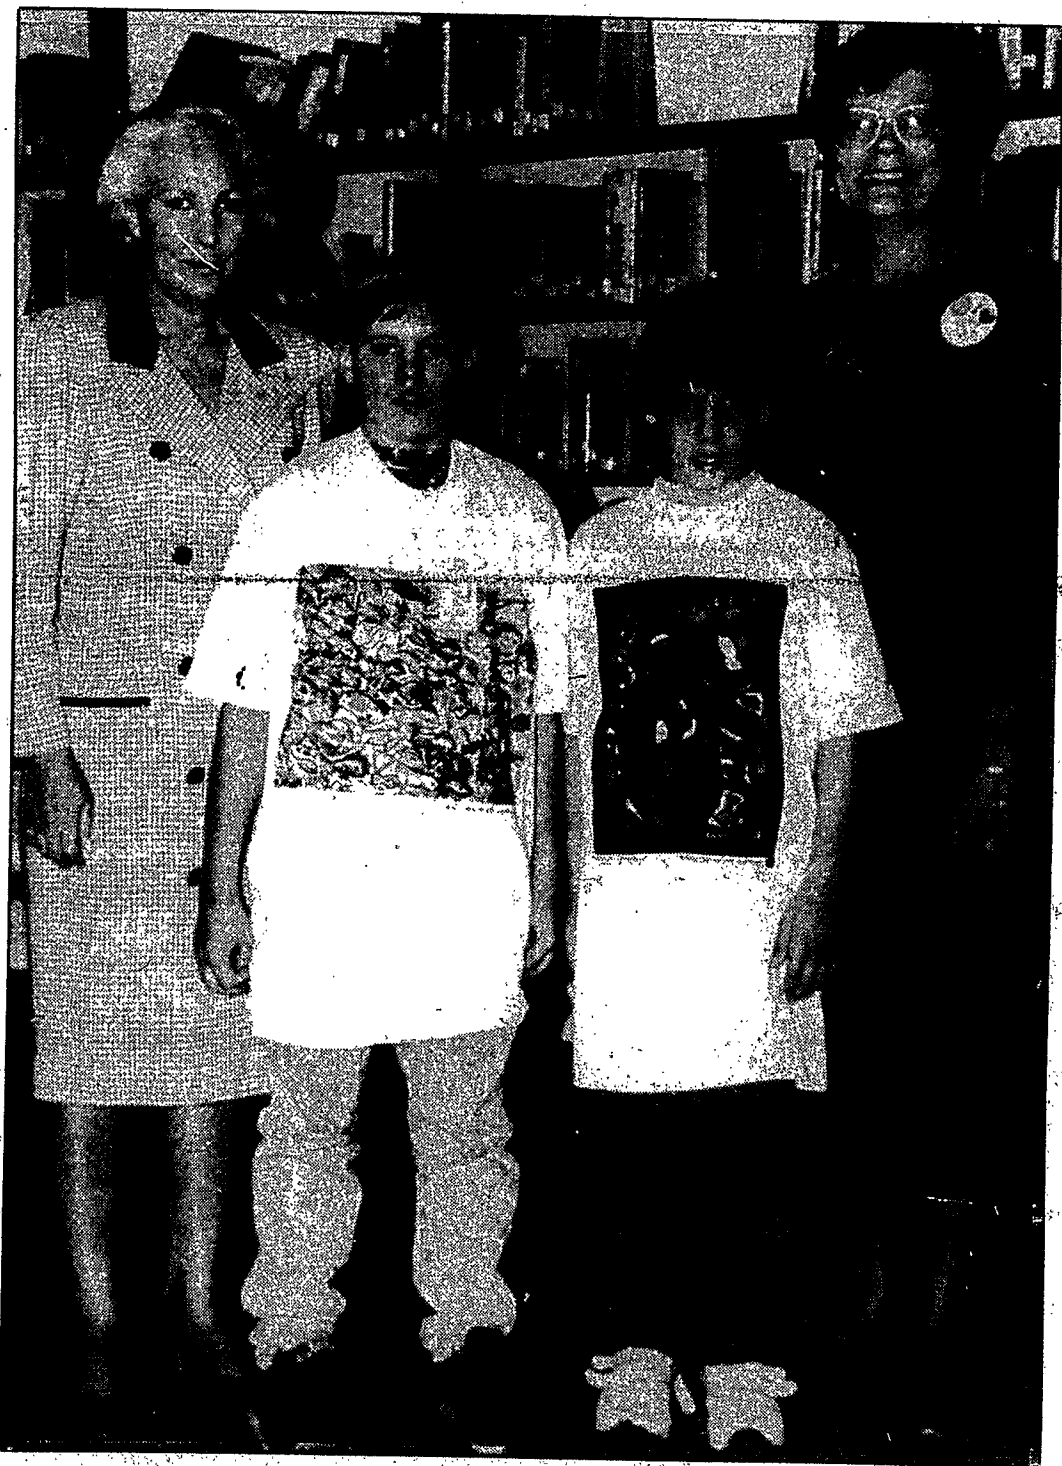

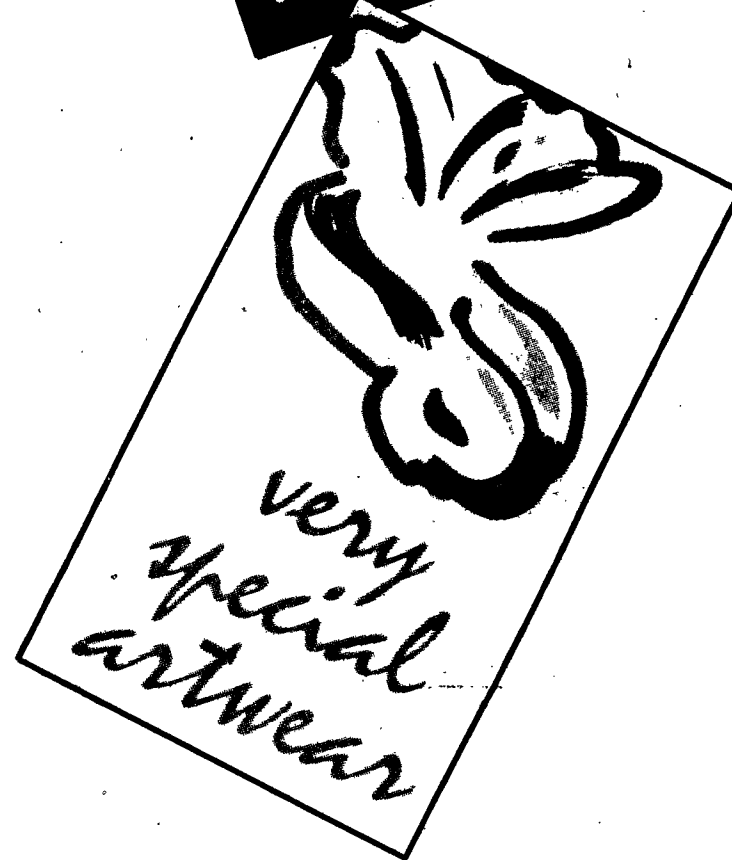

According to Tomlinson, the children participate each year in an art festival. It was for a Poplarville festival that the winning works were created.

Five pieces were chosen to be included in a revolving museum collection. All five were Tomlinson's students, she related with pride.

Watkins' and Curtindale's paintings were selected from the five to be marketed for Very Special Arts Mississippi.

A portion of the proceeds from the sale of the screen-printed shirts will benefit Very Special Arts. Short-sleeved cotton T-shirts will be available for $16, and long-sleeved, $20.

Tomlinson hopes merchants will sell the shirts locally. For information about ordering or purchasing, call the special education department at 467-1021 or 467-2031.

Fall shrubs have surprise in store for gardeners

By Dr. Milo Burnham
Horticulturist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Camellia sasanque is the queen of fall-blooming shrubs. There's not a fall-flowering plant in the landscape that adds so much color and beauty.

At a time of the year when we naturally think of plants ending their growth cycle for the year, sasanquas burst forth in pink, rose, white and red blooms.

Sasanquas are true royalty among landscape plants because of their attractive dark green foliage, relative freedom from serious disease and insect pests, and a bloom period that begins in midfall and extends until freeze kill the blooms.

Light freezes may damage open flowers, but with a few days of warmer weather the shrubs are again covered with them.

Visit local nurseries and garden centers over the next several weeks so you can select from blooming plants. Sasanquas grow well in light shade planted in a well-drained soil with an acid pH. Simply put, they like the same growing conditions that azaleas favor.

Several other excellent landscape shrubs bloom in the fall and are appreciated for their flower fragrance. Elaeagnus pungens and several selections of Osmanthus thus have relatively inconspicuous flowers with strong but not overpowering fragrances.

Both shrubs need plenty of space in which to grow, since they get quite large. Elaeagnus has been used in highway plantings around the state because it grows rapidly and forms a thick, almost impenetrable barrier.

The shrub tolerates heat and many different soil and growing conditions. The upper leaf surface is silvery white the lower leaf surface is bronze, giving the plant an attractive appearance.

Some types of Osmanthus leaves look like holly leaves; therefore, they have the common name of holly olive. Most varieties have dark green leaves, but there are selections available in the nursery trade that have variegated leaves and leaves with creamy-white margins.

Mahonia bealei, leather-leaf mahonia, is a medium-sized shrub that grows well in light-medium shaded areas. The bold, blue-green foliage is quite spiny, which makes this shrub a poor candidate for use close to entrances and walks. It is still a dramatic and useful plant with many uses in the landscape.

In midwinter the tips of the branches bear clusters of bright yellow flowers. The flowers are followed in spring by large clusters of purple berries that mockingbirds love and fight over.

Flowering quince are spring-blooming shrubs, but these plants are so anxious to flower they seem to have a few open flowers all winter long. Hard freeze kills the open blossoms, but with just a day or two of moderate temperatures, more buds open.

Loquat trees are about as hard to find in the northern part of the state as orange trees. The severe freezes of previous winters have killed most of the loquats, which like the other plants discussed here happen to be fall-blooming.

For many years winter temperatures killed the flowers, thus eliminating any chance of getting edible fruit in spring, but the trees survived. In recent years the trees have been killed as well. While the flowers weren't much to look at, they were fragrant.

Another fall-flowering landscape plant of questionable winter hardiness in northern Mississippi is Japanese fatsia. Fatsia is grown principally for its large, dramatic leaves.

The flowers on established plants are golfball-sized clusters of small white flowers. On warm, sunny winter days the flowers burst forth and attract bees.

Since fall is an ideal time to plant landscape shrubs, it isn't necessary to wait until next spring to purchase these fall blooming plants.

Preparing the feast

Chef Johnny Moore and Augusta Acker prepared food for Gulf-side United Methodist Assembly's second Thanksgiving Day community dinner. Approximately 40 people enjoyed the feast of turkey, ham, greens, macaroni, cornbread dressing, cranberry sauce and assorted desserts. The Assembly offered a free dinner to the community "as our way of giving something back," said Moore. (Echo staff photo by Jacqui Cochran)

Pat Draddy chose the challenge of critical care nursing for the close patient contact.

"I want patient contact," she said. "I like knowing everything about my patient. Since the patient ratio is either one-to-one or two-to-one, I know what's going on with my patients and their families."

Professional nursing at Memorial means access to progressive health care. "At Memorial," Pat said, "you are exposed to a lot more than you would be at other Coast hospitals — the open heart program, the cath lab, the critical care transport. Memorial is very progressive."

Memorial recognizes not only your professionalism — but your need to share in the important decisions governing nursing practice at MHG. That's why we have two very special programs in place to give the professional RN the power to improve the care-giving environment.

Through our Career Advancement Program (CAP) and Shared Governance, the nurse working at the bedside can continue to increase his/her level of knowledge, experience and involvement in professional activities as well as have a real voice in the management of nursing practice. Through CAP, the registered nurse advances through four levels of clinical expertise, receiving recognition and reward at each level. In Shared Governance, the nurse on the floor can gain decision-making power through several nursing councils.

If Memorial is the environment you've been looking for, contact Susan Smith, RN, Professional Recruiter, Memorial Hospital at Gulfport, P.O. Box 1810, Gulfport, MS 39502-1810 or call collect at (601) 865-3302.

Indians are a proud part of our past and present.

The first Mississippians wore animal hides and hunted mastodons with spears. That was about 12,000 years ago. Indians still live here, but their numbers are much less. About 6,000 Choctaws are related to those who would not move with the tribe to Oklahoma in the 1800s.

White man's greed for land and his germs caused many other Mississippi tribes to leave or to die off. The Biloxi, Natchez, Chickasaw, Tunica and other tribes are history.

The Mississippi Choctaws are proving that the first Americans are survivors. Their numbers are growing again. They live in eight communities on 22,000 acres of land, and have a chief named Phillip Martin. Each year in July, they celebrate their way of life. People with red, white and brown skin come from across the nation to honor them.

Loving isn't easy

Reflections

On Life

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

Euphoric and jaunty, with my van full of furniture donated by a generous friend in Baton Rouge, I cruised into New Orleans and let down from Interstate 10 onto our street, Governor Nicholls.

Driving past the rectory, my heart sank when I scanned the broken glass lying under the carport. Immediately, I knew that my old companion, the Chevrolet Celebrity, had been hotwired and stolen.

"No, it doesn't happen just to other people," I reflected. This time around, it was my turn to experience the shock, the unexpected loss, the wrenching feeling of having been violated and invaded, the gnawing sense of insecurity about the future.

Never again could I be clinically detached from any story about a burglary, break-in or robbery.

There was not a trace of excitement in my pulsebeat or in any other bodily reaction. Still, I was fully aware that a dangerous, deep-seated rage burned within me.

At that moment I understood more clearly that it is much easier to talk about and wax eloquent about reverencing and opting for human life than to do the same, especially when that human life belongs to someone who has seriously violated human rights. Yes, loving isn't easy sometimes.

When Jesus told us, "Love your enemies, do good to those who hate you; bless those who curse you and pray for those who maltreat you" (Lk. 6: 27-28), he did not make loving any easier.

To the contrary, he made it a great deal more difficult, extending our human nature to the point where only the divine can help us.

Then, many people aggravate the difficulty by giving us the shaft and twisting it in our bodies. Under the goad of such provocations which add insult to injury and rub salt into our wounds, Jesus commands us to respect the life of the thugs themselves and to respect their physical integrity and overall well-being.

This, of course, does not prohibit us from defending ourselves with appropriate force and from hurting another, if need be, who threatens our safety or property.

There can be a fine line between defending our rights and violating the rights of others. In any case, we are commanded to respect human life.

This very moment, even as I write, I am fresh back from discovering that my rectory suffered a break-in early this morning. Someone entered through an upstairs window, ransacked parts of the rectory and took the cash from my trousers which were lying on a chair within ten feet of where I was sleeping.

If I was doing a slow burn with rage before, I am now boiling to the flashpoint of danger. I had heard a door slam, but thought it was Brother Bob Mauss who often passes by in the morning enroute to his social work at St. Mary of the Angels. Alas, it was not Bob, nor did I challenge the intruder. What if I had?

Loving is relatively easy until someone treads on our toes, inflicts pain on us, does violence to our agenda or way of life, or, especially, violates our rights and attacks our well-being.

This is true, even when the offender is someone near and dear to us. All the more is it true when a stranger assaults us or the things which we need for our journey through life.

Is nothing sacred? Why hit a church where the people have banded together to do good things both material and spiritual for themselves and for the community in which they live?

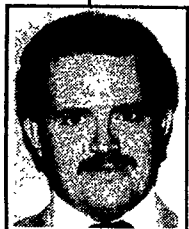

Apparently, the dopeheads and other never-do-wells could not care less, providing there is money for the taking. While respecting life, we must also be eternally vigilant for life's freedoms.

PAMELA THOMAS METZLER
CIRCUIT CLERK

LOOKING INSIDE

By Pastor Bob
Guidry, Jr.

Blessed are the poor?

In this tangled world where we live, simplicity is often a welcome and valuable sanctuary.

Perhaps the greatest of all simplicity is found in the words of Jesus. He had a way of summing up all that troubled those around him, and even the answer they were searching for, in just one simple phrase.

My purpose is not to complicate what Jesus has said, but to cause us to apply it to our lives. Knowledge is useless unless it is applied.

In Matthew 5:3, Jesus said, "Blessed are the poor in spirit; for theirs is the kingdom of heaven."

The Amplified Bible defines "blessed" as "happy, to be envied and spiritually prosperous, with life, joy and satisfaction in God's favor and salvation, regardless of their outward condition."

The blessing of God will cause us to have peace in any situation we may find ourselves.

Jesus said that if we were "poor in spirit," we would receive this blessing. The question is, then: How do we become "poor in spirit?"

The Greek word used here is "ptochos," which means "someone who is not sufficient in himself." It denotes a beggar, or someone with insufficient means.

We can all find ourselves in a place of physical insufficiency; however, Jesus is not talking about physical, but spiritual insufficiency.

In Exodus 3, God reveals himself as the all-sufficient God. He is everything we need.

There is probably no greater need in our lives than that of the spirit. God made us as spirit beings, but we do not have what it takes to function in the realm of the spirit without him.

It is only when we humble ourselves and recognize our spiritual insufficiency that the blessings of God flow.

God stands ready to pour out his blessings upon you. You only need to exchange your need for his provision.

In A Medical Emergency Its Value Goes Beyond Words.

In a medical emergency quick accurate information can be critical. Often, however, you may not be able to provide this important information. That's one of the reasons why NorthShore Regional Medical Center has developed the NorthNet 55 Card for residents of the north shore - 55 or better. Golden anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Gillis Guidry of Waveland recently celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary with friends and relatives at a reception hosted by their children, Dr. Lawrence Guidry and Mrs. Adrienne Bremier.

Liz Covington Wears The Same Face At Home She Wears At Work.

If we hired people at Garden Park Community Hospital only for their proficiency in clinical care—how quickly they can fill out a chart or how skillfully they can bandage a wound, we could hire the same people any hospital does.

But we don't. We hire people for more than that.

We hire them for their proficiency in patient care—how quickly they can drop what they're doing if a patient needs them, how easily they can make a patient feel comfortable or how skillfully they can listen.

And because of that, we get the kind of people you won't find in other hospitals. People like Liz Covington who treat their Garden Park patients the same way they treat their family. With unqualified compassion. The utmost respect. And as much attention as they can handle.

State-of-the-art technology? The latest medical procedures? Employees who can recite their clinical care manuals chapter and verse? You can find those at most hospitals, including Garden Park.

Liz Covington? You can find her only at Garden Park.

Concerned about environment

Waveland Wal-Mart store manager Joey Vick, right, presents a $1,000 check to the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce through City of Waveland Mayor John Longo. The funds are to be used for community environmental projects, parks and recreation, and preservation of our Coast beaches. Those in photo are, from right, Vick, Arlene Sanchez, Waveland Wal-Mart training coordinator of personnel; Mayor Longo and Ellis C. Cuevas, chamber beautification chairman. Vick said, "The associates of the Waveland Wal-Mart store presented this check on behalf of Wal-Mart, Inc., as the company demonstrates its commitment to the land, air and water of our community." (Echo staff photo by Traci Bonney).
